Introduction

Nearly all of us are victims of a massive and virtually unknown criminal scam being undertaken by the Establishment – that is the private bankers, the corporate financiers and the secretive Crown Corporation that all make up The City of London!

What you are about to read is completely factual and evidence based. It exposes the hidden truth about money creation and money supply as well as highlighting an actual historical precedent that, if reintroduced today, would immediately transform our nation from experiencing austerity and fear into experiencing real happiness, real financial stability and real prosperity for all.

We know from well placed ‘insiders’ that David Cameron, George Osborne and the City of London are extremely worried that this information will become widely known by the British people!

Chapter 1

The global financiers' hidden hand is now exposed for all to see!

With only 24% of the national vote, Cameron, Osborne and the Tories surprised the pollsters by 'winning' the 2015 General Election and with a small working majority are now starting out on a five year programme to make their dreadful austerity-based manifesto a reality. The people may have voted, but one thing is absolutely certain, the people didn't go to the polling booths armed with the truth and the facts they needed to know in order to make the right decision – the truth and the facts that you are now about to read! Had they done so, Cameron and his rabble would probably have won less seats than the Liberal Democrats! But, having said that, Miliband would have fared no better! The truth is startling!

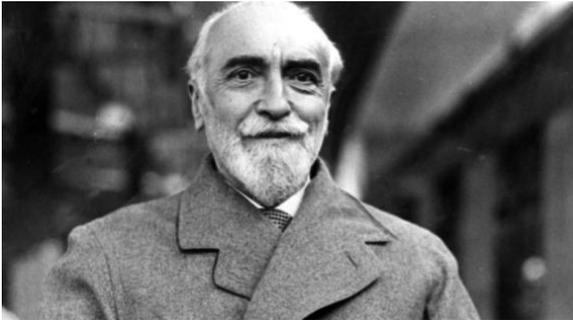

But before exposing what is REALLY going on, let's look at the reality of what is about to happen. The Tories, as the natural mouthpiece and ally for the City of London, the financial markets and the global banking cartel, are now ready to 'tackle the deficit' by calling for 'austerity measures', 'further budget cuts' and 'welfare cuts' amounting to some twelve billion pounds. It goes without saying that this will obviously hit the weakest and most vulnerable in our society. In addition, the process to privatise and break up essential parts of the National Health Service is now inevitable as the full effects of the feared and highly secretive Transatlantic Trade and Investment Partnership (TTIP) start to be felt. The greed-based corporate and financial mindset, with its ruthless and profit-driven ability to inflict pain, division and fear, not to mention war and widespread ecological destruction, is making a final push from its power base in the City of London to manoeuvre and force humanity into accepting a form of corporate global governance that is both Orwellian in nature and fascist to the core. For those people who have done their research properly and who have been kept fully informed by well placed and well meaning ‘insiders’, this nightmare scenario is most definitely not the product of excitable and misguided conspiracy theorists.

To prove this, please study very carefully and take in these two completely verifiable quotes from two ‘insiders’ which completely expose the whole corrupt banking and financial corporate system for what it really is. The first quote is from Montagu Norman, Governor of the Bank of England, in a speech he gave to the US Bankers Association in 1924. He said the following:

“Capital must protect itself in every possible way, both by combination and legislation. Debts must be collected, mortgages foreclosed as rapidly as possible. When, through process of law, the common people lose their homes, they will become more docile and more easily governed through the strong arm of the government applied by a central power of wealth under leading financiers. These truths are well known among our principal men, who are now engaged in forming an imperialism to govern the world. By dividing the voter through the political party system, we can get them to expend their energies in fighting for questions of no importance. It is thus, by discrete action, we can secure for ourselves that which has been so well planned and so successfully accomplished.”

Montagu Norman

The second quote comes from Carroll Quigley in his book ‘Tragedy and Hope – A History of the World in Our Time’ published in 1966. He wrote:

“The powers of financial capitalism had another far reaching aim, nothing less than to create a world system of financial control in private hands able to dominate the political system of each country and the economy of the world as a whole. This system was to be controlled in a feudalist fashion by the central banks of the world acting in concert, by secret agreements, arrived at in frequent private meetings and conferences. The apex of the system was the Bank for International Settlements in Basle, Switzerland; a private bank owned and controlled by the world's central banks which were themselves private corporations. The growth of financial capitalism made possible a centralization of world economic control and use of this power for the direct benefit of financiers and the indirect injury of all other economic groups.”

Professor Carroll Quigley

Not a household name but Carroll Quigley was a professor of history at Georgetown University and was the mentor of President Bill Clinton. He was also someone who was completely accepted and trusted by the financial ‘insiders’ and was allowed the rare privilege of attending some of their secretive meetings behind closed doors.

This global financial elite or cartel operates very much in the shadows through a network of secretive and so-called academic 'think-tanks' such as the Bilderberg Group and the Trilateral Commission. Quigley’s naming of the very little known Bank for International Settlements (BIS) is completely correct when it comes to this 'centralization of world economic control' and it was Montagu Norman, the longest ever serving Governor of the Bank of England and by far the most controversial, who was instrumental behind the setting up of the BIS in 1930. It is interesting to note that he also arranged and supported the initial funding of Adolf Hitler and the Nazi regime.

The Bank for International Settlements, based in Basle, Switzerland and which enjoys high-level diplomatic immunity to protect it from prying eyes, relies upon humanity not knowing much, if anything, about it. Indeed, you could say that probably ninety-nine per cent of the British people have never heard of it, including it would seem the majority of our elected representatives in Parliament. Nearly everyone has heard about the IMF and the World Bank but the BIS prefers a more low profile existence and so operates much more in the shadows. Why? Well. it acts effectively as the central bank for sixty of the world's top central banks (including, of course, the Bank of England, the Federal Reserve and the European Central Bank) and it involves itself with the overseeing and handling of 95% of the world's money with virtually no transparency or accountability at all.

Around twelve of the most important central bank governors, including our own Mark Carney, meet in complete secrecy every two months. Here, with the discreet involvement and influence of the key banking dynasties (such as the Rothschild, Morgan, Oppenheim, Lehman, Warburg and Rockefeller families), these governors – and not democratically elected and fully accountable national representatives - effectively decide on the strategic liquidity needed for the world's economy. However, Professor Quigley did make the following observation in his book 'Tragedy and Hope':

“It must not be felt that these heads of the world's chief central banks were themselves substantive powers in world finance. They were not. Rather, they were the technicians and agents of the dominant investment bankers of their own countries, who had raised them up and were perfectly capable of throwing them down. The substantive financial powers of the world were in the hands of these investment bankers (also called 'international' or 'merchants' bankers) who remained largely behind the scenes in their own unincorporated banks. These formed a system of international cooperation and national dominance which was more private, more powerful, and more secret than that of their agents in the central banks...”

As part of this emerging push by the elite towards increasing global corporate and financial control over humanity, this unlawful and hidden confiscation by the City of London of the British people's absolute control over Britain's sovereign money supply has been allowed to happen with the complete connivance and compliance of many of our most senior politicians from both sides of the political argument. A good example of this is that two regular attendees at the most recent annual Bilderberg Group meetings, including last week's conference in Austria at the Alpine resort of Telfs-Buchen are George Osborne and Ed Balls, both of whom are sworn to secrecy about what was discussed there and by whom. This is blatantly unacceptable and they should both be challenged about it! <sup>1</sup>

And it is this unbelievable secrecy, not to mention the deliberate refusal by the mainstream media to report and challenge what goes on at these high level meetings, which allows the world's financial system to get away with such appalling criminality and complete lack of proper accountability and transparency. David Rockefeller, a long-time leading proponent for corporate global governance (sometimes referred to by the elite as 'The New World Order'), said at the June 1991 Bilderberg meeting in Baden, Germany:

“We are grateful to the Washington Post, the New York Times, Time Magazine and other great publications whose directors have attended our meetings and respected their promises of discretion for almost forty years ... It would have been impossible for us to develop our plan for the world if we had been subjected to the lights of publicity during those years. But, the world is more sophisticated and prepared to march towards a world government. The supranational sovereignty of an intellectual elite and world bankers is surely preferable to the national auto-determination practiced in past centuries.”

The evidence is absolutely compelling that both the electorate and the majority of our elected representatives are wading through a sea of complete ignorance when it comes to knowledge about how money is actually created and controlled. In the debate late last year in the House of Commons entitled Money Creation and Society, out of 650 MPs only around twenty-five bothered to turn up, and those that did had very little understanding indeed of the subject. This is frightening – it would appear that our elected representatives fall into two categories.

The overwhelming majority are completely ignorant when it comes to money creation and money supply, with many believing it is not a part of their remit to investigate this subject. However, a very small minority, usually holding positions of power in their respective parties and who have attended secretive high-level meetings of bodies such as the Bilderberg Group, are fully aware as to how a cabal of very powerful, debt-creating private bankers in the City of London have effectively seized, using unlawful deception and outright fraud, the right to issue and control our nation's money supply.

And if you want to highlight this last point in particular, imagine how shocked all the new MPs will be when they discover that sitting alongside them in the House of Commons is someone called the City Remembrancer. Effectively this individual, whose post was created way back in 1570, is unelected and unaccountable to the British electorate whilst serving as a lobbyist and protector for the ‘ancient rights and traditions’ of the City of London. He can, and does, steer our elected representatives away from getting too close to the real truth about money creation and money supply, not to mention the whole rotten global financial system that causes so much extreme misery in the world.

To reinforce this opening salvo on the criminality of the global corporate banking system, here are two damning extracts from the book ‘Economic Tribulations’ written by Vincent C. Vickers. This man was a leading industrialist as well as being a Deputy Lieutenant of the City of London and a Director of the Bank of England from 1910 until 1919. In 1926 he publicly declared his opposition to the policies of Montagu Norman and his proposed Bank for International Settlements. He finished writing his book just after the outbreak of the Second World War but unfortunately died only one month later in November 1939. In his book<sup>2</sup> Vickers wrote:

“Although it is the money system which is to be accused of dishonesty, those who use and depend upon a dishonest system, knowing that system to be dishonest, cannot themselves be regarded as honest men. Moreover, it may be that the present system, which international finance has forced our democratic government to adopt, uphold, and protect by every possible means, has undermined the character of the people and forced them to alter their definition of the word honesty so that it may be made to comply more nearly with modern practice”.

“The supply and issue of money and the creation of credit still remain almost entirely outside the control of the Government, and are still managed by Banking and Finance and by the Bank of England with its intimate associations with the Bank for International Settlements; whilst, until our actual declaration of war, Foreign Exchange speculators were permitted at all times to gamble with the nation’s credit, untrammelled by any sense of patriotic duty and thinking only of their own profit.....Until these financial Gangsters are permanently exterminated there can be no complete confidence in the economic welfare of the country”.

Finally, in Chapter VII, which is entitled ‘The Direction of Future Policy’ Vickers lists his proposals which are not too dissimilar to what we need today. They are proposals that will certainly 'exterminate the financial Gangsters'!

"In the question of what steps should be taken to put matters right, I can only suggest the general direction in which our future policy should point; for I myself do not believe that there exists any perfect cut-and-dried scheme which is likely hereafter to be adopted, lock, stock, and barrel, as our future monetary system. Moreover, there are many other technical and psychological considerations which would be necessary in order to achieve peace and contentment amongst the people. The main objectives however, should include:-

1.) State control and State issue of currency and credit through a central organisation managed and controlled by the State.

2.) Stabilisation of the wholesale price level of commodities. That is to say, a fixed and constant internal purchasing power of money; so that a pound will buy to-morrow what it bought yesterday; an honest pound, not a fluctuating pound. And this can be done by so issuing and regulating the volume of available credit and currency that it shall at all times be adequate to permit of the purchasing power of the consumer being equated with the volume of production; not by limiting the purchasing power, but by firstly increasing purchasing power more in proportion to the productive capacity of industry.

3.) Fixation of foreign exchanges by foreign exchange equalisation funds, and agreement with Empire countries and all other countries willing to fall into line; and, once this was accomplished, the removal or diminution of trade barriers which to-day protect the countries from the results of a bad monetary system.

4.) Any additional supply of money should be issued as a clear asset to the State; so that money will be spent into existence, and not lent into existence.

5.) The fluctuating quantity of gold lying in the vaults of the banking system should never be permitted to govern the volume of credit and currency needed by the country.

6.) The elimination of slumps and booms; and more direct procedure for eliminating unnecessary poverty

7.) The abolition of the Debt System where all credit is created by the banks and hired out at interest to the country.

8.) Absolute State control over all foreign lending; and the adoption of the general principle that our foreign trade should be so conducted as to preserve:

(a) the interests of the Home Market

(b) the interests of the Empire countries and the English-speaking nations

(c) the interests of Foreign nations, and that this principle should particularly apply in the case of Home production and foodstuffs”.

And to confirm everything you’ve just read, and to completely back up what Vincent Vickers wrote in his book, lets look at this 1924 quote from Reginald McKenna when he addressed, as chairman of the board of the Midland Bank, his stockholders. He said:

“I am afraid that the ordinary citizen will not like to be told that the banks can and do create and destroy money. And they who control the credit of a nation direct the policy of governments, and hold in the hollow of their hands the destiny of the people.”

McKenna was also Chancellor of the Exchequer in 1915-16 so he clearly knew what he was talking about!

And finally, here's the absolute proof that the criminal banking elite are controlling our lives by creating money completely out of thin air<sup>3</sup>.

"In the modern economy, most money takes the form of bank deposits. But how those bank deposits are created is often misunderstood: the principal way is through commercial banks making loans. Whenever a bank makes a loan, it simultaneously creates a matching deposit in the borrower's bank account, thereby creating new money".

The simple fact is this - just 3% of all the money in the UK is created as physical money (coins and notes) by the Bank of England on behalf of HM Treasury. The rest, 97%, is created by the private banks from absolutely nothing!

It is almost unbelievable - we are all being scammed into lives of debt-servitude and corporate serfdom by an unelected and unaccountable elite grouping in the City of London that makes up nothing like one per cent of the population. And what's happening here in the UK is mirrored throughout the whole world!

2. Why the hell do we put up with such blatant criminality?

The actual corporate mindset behind this global financial system would appear to lack any empathy whatsoever towards the human condition; indeed, decent-minded people could well describe this mindset as being simply evil. The actual numbers of people involved in keeping this system going, including the system's 'useful idiots' (mainstream politicians, economists and journalists 'in the know'), are hugely less than one per cent of the world's population, but despite this, their main endeavour is the pursuit of complete global governance on their corporate terms - terms which are truly shocking and completely undemocratic!

So let's look at this global financial system. In its current format it is a highly complex system that is provably based on lies, deception and extreme greed. It is a system that has put humanity onto a treadmill that is going faster and faster – a treadmill of mass mindless production to meet mass mindless consumption. It is a system that has created a highly competitive and utterly bogus 'global economic race' for nations and their decision-makers to be completely absorbed and distracted by.

It is a system geared to achieving maximum profits at the expense of increasing environmental degradation, not to mention the deliberate generation of completely unsustainable levels of debt. And it is a system which seeks to dominate and completely control the democratic process by unlawfully undermining sovereign nations from within in order to take humanity step by step towards global governance on corporate terms that George Orwell would immediately recognise - just look at the proposed Transatlantic Trade and Investment Partnership (TTIP) to see a perfect example of this.

Our overall happiness and well-being are most certainly not the system's priority – our unquestioning compliance and allegiance to their financial system for making huge profits for 'The City' and the 'one per cent' most certainly is. This is a system that has to be confronted head on but absolutely nothing is going to change or be achieved whilst well-meaning people refuse to investigate how money is actually created and by whom. The sweat shops, where the world's poorest and most destitute people are forced to manufacture in harsh and often inhumane conditions, will continue apace as the global financial system's voracious appetite for low cost exploitative production is allowed to prevail at the expense of simple human decency.

And if you need any further persuading that this global financial system isn't benign just look at these simple and appalling statistics:

- Nearly 1/2 of the world's population — more than 3 billion people — live on less than $2.50 a day. More than 1.3 billion live in extreme poverty, that's less than $1.25 a day. Source: UNICEF
- One billion children worldwide are living in abject poverty. As a direct result 22,000 children die each day. Source: UNICEF
- The 85 richest people in the world have as much wealth as the 3.5 billion poorest: Source: Oxfam International
- Almost half of the world's wealth is now owned by just one percent of the population. Source: Oxfam International

The stark reality and extremes of our criminally insane global economic system!

The criminal insanity of this global financial system can be stopped dead in its tracks once the truth gets out - the time has now come for ordinary people of goodwill to come together and to get behind a new mass movement (not a political party) that will throw down the gauntlet of truth, common sense, common decency and actual historical precedent on behalf of all of humanity so as to end this financial madness and political nightmare of growing proportions.

Chapter 3

The game changing historical precedent that will completely collapse the City of London's house of cards!

Before actually looking at this historical precedent that will expose and bring down this financial system that allows the 'one per cent' to have almost complete financial and corporate control over the rest of humanity, let's look at what this 'huge provable lie' is which is mentioned in the title of this e-book?

Well, politicians, mainstream economists and City of London bankers and financiers will all tell you that any sovereign nation, when its taxation and other receipts cannot meet its expenditure commitments, has to borrow the difference from the private banking and financial sector – in Britain it used to be called the Public Sector Borrowing Requirement but increasingly today the mainstream media simply refer to it as the 'Deficit'.

For hundreds of years this has always been the case and here in the UK this cosy 'arrangement' between the Government and the City of London has gone almost completely unnoticed and unquestioned by the ignorant and trusting electorate. This is about to change!

The banking and merchant elite, who set up the Bank of England in 1694 and who went on to extend and consolidate the power and influence of the Crown Corporation of the City of London, perfected the quite brilliant financial scam of 'fractional reserve banking' which 'allows' the banks and financial institutions to fraudulently create money completely out of thin air as debt from your deposits<sup>45</sup>. These two links explain clearly how this highly questionable process works:

The leading banking dynasties, with their complicit and 'paid for' politicians, have globally used this financial debt-creating mechanism, along with their excessive use of usury, to put nations, communities and families into unsustainable levels of unlawful debt. And with severe debt, of course, comes ruthless, top-down Orwellian corporate control and, in many cases, blatant corporate theft. However, just as a point of interest, if you go into your local bank and ask any of the front line staff there have they heard of fractional reserve banking, almost certainly you will get a negative response....it would appear you have to be quite senior in the pecking order before you are allowed to know the truth about how the private bankers actually create their vast profits completely out of thin air!

In Britain, this black art of money creation has serious ramifications for the humble taxpayer. When the bankers have created their fresh air money and this 'nothingness' is then lent to HM Treasury in return for bonds (IOU notes), the British taxpayers then have to find the money to pay the interest on this 'nothingness'. Currently, the interest being paid by HM Treasury to the bankers amounts to £52 billion a year (that's £1 billion a week!)....just to pay the interest on something that never actually existed in the first place! It's absolutely insane! And it's provably fraudulent!

Unfortunately for the global banking elite and their political acolytes, the truth about their scam and unethical practices has now been exposed by whistle-blowers and insiders, including two former Directors of the Bank of England. What they are exposing and highlighting is an incredibly simple truth....and that truth is that any government of a sovereign nation has the ABSOLUTE right to issue and control its own debt-free and interest-free money through its treasury.

This treasury-issued money (not coming from the privately controlled central banks) is based on the wealth, integrity and potential of that nation and can be used to provide the liquidity needed for a prosperous and vibrant economy that meets the needs, security and happiness of that nation. Intelligent and targeted taxation is then used by a government to take excessive money out of the economy thus avoiding any possible problems with inflation. It's not rocket science - it's all ridiculously simple and it has been done before with great success!

The American colonies in the 18th century used a paper currency called Colonial Scrip<sup>6</sup> which provided the debt-free and interest-free liquidity needed to create prosperous economies in the different colonies. By issuing these 'bills of credit' the colonials frustrated the private debt-creating bankers and the City of London and some historians believe that this was the real reason why the American War of Independence was fought.

Colonial Scrip

<https://21stcenturycicero.wordpress.com/fraud/colonial-scrip/>

Another example of ‘bills of credit’ nearer to home was what happened in Guernsey at the end of the Napoleonic Wars<sup>78</sup>.

The Guernsey Pound

But the best known example in history of debt-free and interest-free money being issued by a government based on the credit of the nation is Abraham Lincoln’s Greenback Dollar created during the American Civil War:

The Greenback Dollars

<sup>7</sup> <http://www.michaeljournal.org/guernsey.htm>

More information about the Greenback Dollars can be found at:

http://www.webofdebt.com/articles/lincoln\_obama.php

<http://www.michaeljournal.org/lincolnkennedy.htm>

These are just three examples that clearly show that there is absolutely no need for this conjured up and completely contrived economic problem called 'austerity' - nor indeed is there any need for any sort of financial crisis in the future! The hidden truth about money supply is now OUT for all to see and understand!

So that's the 'huge provable lie' taken care of. Now for the British solution to obliterate austerity in one go – the historical precedent whose restoration will change almost everything in Britain for the good.

But first, it might just help the reader if we remind ourselves what money actually is. The best and clearest definition is probably this - money is simply a convenient unit of exchange for goods and services that people have complete confidence in. That's it! Nothing could be more simple! So with that in mind, and knowing that any sovereign nation - like the United Kingdom - has an absolute right to issue and control its own debt-free and interest-free sovereign money, the proverbial elephant in the room can't be ignored any longer - there is absolutely no need at all to involve the private banking and financial sector in the running of our country's economy! And we know from 'insiders' that this simple fact will bring down the power base of the Crown Corporation's City of London like a house of cards.

So we now come to this one hundred year old historical precedent which has so much riding on it! At the outbreak of the First World War, the Bank of England and the private bankers, fearing that people would rush to withdraw their money thus setting in motion a run on the banks, went to see Lloyd George, the then Chancellor of the Exchequer. He quickly rushed through the Currency and Bank Notes Act 1914 which allowed His Majesty's Treasury to immediately start issuing debt-free and interest-free treasury notes based on the credit worthiness of the country.

Having extended the August 3rd Bank Holiday by a further three days, the banks reopened for business on August 7th with these new treasury notes being immediately accepted as legitimate money by the British people. Signed by the First Secretary to the Treasury, Sir John Bradbury, the next few months saw some £300 million of these 'Bradbury' treasury notes being printed thus effectively averting any possible financial crisis as Britain mobilised her armed forces and industries for the grim struggle ahead.

Rushed through in three days – the first batch of Bradburys were printed on stamp paper on one side only

However, the private bankers, realising that these debt-free Bradburys would prevent them from making obscene profits from this terrible war, ‘persuaded’ Lloyd George to agree to phase out the debt-free treasury notes in favour of returning to the more conventional loans from the banks whereby interest would be added. The result of this ‘about turn’ in favour of the bankers was to see Britain’s National Debt go up from £650 million in 1914 to a staggering £7,500 million in 1919. The bankers had made their killing out of the killing!

In his book ‘Financiers and the Nation’, Thomas Johnston, a former privy councillor and much respected Scottish Labour politician (who is widely seen as being the father of Scotland’s hydroelectric power programme), described what happened at the outbreak of World War One in Chapter 6, entitled ‘Usury on the Great War’<sup>9</sup>. This chapter has woken up a lot of people to the truth about the City of London, the bankers and the unlawful control of our money supply.

Thomas Johnston – an honest politician!

So what happened one hundred years ago, in August 1914, with the launching of debt-free and interest-free money coming from the Treasury based on the credit and potential of the British nation, confirmed, just as with Colonial Scrip, the Guernsey Pound and the Greenback Dollar this simple principle of National Credit – the ability of a sovereign nation to be in complete control of its own sovereign money. As Thomas Johnston said referring to the Bradbury Pound:

“This new currency had been issued by the State, was backed by the credit of the State, and was issued to the banks to prevent the banks from utter collapse. The public cheerfully accepted the new notes; and nobody talked about inflation.”

Second issue of the Bradbury Pound

And it is inflation that supporters of the existing financial system try and use to discredit the concept of National Credit. The immediate knee-jerk response we always hear from those trying to defend the completely indefensible, is that the Bradbury Pound is yet just another case of a government simply ‘printing money’ and that this will lead to ruinous hyperinflation like we saw in pre-war Germany with the Weimar Republic. The answer to this response is simple - it won’t! If a responsible British Government actually ‘governs’ and uses intelligent and targeted taxation to take any heat out of the economy, there will be no inflation. Fact! And if you want to know what actually happened with the Weimar Republic, please read this excellent article by Ellen Brown<sup>10</sup> where she exposes that the hyperinflation was caused not by the Weimar's treasury but by the Reichsbank, the privatised German Central Bank, along with other private banks and currency speculators in Wall Street and the City of London. And when Hitler reversed the economic fortunes of Germany quickly and effectively, what did he use? He used a form of National Credit<sup>11</sup> by creating Labour Treasury Certificates!

Another ridiculous knee-jerk reaction we get from the system-servers is that the principle of the Bradbury Pound has already been embraced with the use of Quantitative Easing! Rubbish! QE is simply about BIS controlled central banks printing money electronically out of nothing to buy financial assets like government bonds. This debt-laden money simply goes into the private banking system and is not used for the public good. It's yet another complex financial scam courtesy of the City of London and the globalist banksters!

The incredible implications of restoring the Bradbury Pound.

Now let's just stop a moment, take a deep breath and think what the restoration of the Bradbury Pound would do for our nation and its economy. As we've seen, the principle of National Credit is that we, as the British nation, will be able to issue debt-free and interest-free money based on the wealth and potential of our nation without going anywhere near the private bankers and the City of London.

A later example of the Bradbury Pound.

The positive implications of bringing back Treasury-issued money are clear to see as the country would now have the proper debt-free and interest-free liquidity needed to meet its essential needs and to transform the British economy for the good. The 'to do' list would include:

- The NHS and other supporting services would have no deficit or funding difficulties to meet all their needs and requirements in securing the good health and well-being of all, including, of course, the elderly, the vulnerable and the disadvantaged.
- Some sort of universal basic income scheme could be introduced to replace much of the complex and invasive welfare and benefits system.
- Student fees would be immediately abolished – education at all levels would be free without question.
- The armed services would be restored to a level where our nation's security and sovereignty is not dependent on other nations' armed forces.
- People would have real and practical help, including interest-free loans, to set up their own businesses.

- The nation's skills shortage would be completely reversed by greatly increasing the number of apprenticeships for young people.
- British ship-building and other traditional heavy industries would be given a new lease of life.
- Roads, railways, power stations, schools and other vital infrastructure for the nation would be improved, maintained and constructed to a very high standard.

According to the Office of National Statistics, in 2010 the UK's human capital stock was worth £17.12 trillion<sup>12</sup>.

Coupled with this, our country's assets in 2013 were worth £7.24 trillion<sup>13</sup>.

Now this means that our country today is roughly worth in the region of £24 trillion.

Now obviously we are not going to suddenly create, using National Credit, anything like this figure for the liquidity of our country's economy, but we do need to put right quickly and effectively the human cost and financial damage that has been done to innocent people, our country's infrastructure and our nation's well-being courtesy of the completely contrived and provably unlawful austerity measures.

At this stage, it would seem sensible for the government to mobilise National Credit to the tune of around £500 billion of debt-free and interest-free money and to then introduce this money into the economy in a targeted and very responsible way in order to meet the costs incurred from tackling the above to-do list. Such a move would also reduce considerably the tax burden for everyone. If the City of London and the money markets don't like this, there's not a lot they can do about it! Money will once again be the servant of the people!

However, the National Debt<sup>14</sup> of just over £1.5 trillion (rising by £5,170 a second!) will not be paid off using National Credit. This debt was largely arrived at by criminal fraud and it will be left to a jury in a court of law to decide whether or not a crime has taken place and whether or not the National Debt should be simply nullified. After all, a very important tenet of our ancient Common Law is that criminals must never be allowed to get away with their crimes!

Another very positive implication concerning the restoration of the Bradbury Pound is this - if events in Greece (who, of course, should now embrace National Credit and create a treasury-issued, debt-free Drachma version of the Bradbury) or another country were to lead to a sudden collapse of the world's financial markets (something that we are expecting as the global elite cunningly manoeuvre humanity into accepting a cashless world as a stepping stone towards accepting their long cherished goal of creating some sort of global debt-based electronic monetary system which, of course, would be completely under their control) then the British Government, if they were so disposed and were now on the side of the people rather than the City of London, could implement in seconds an electronic version of the debt-free Bradbury Pound in order to support and underpin completely the entire lawful British economy and so prevent any sudden collapse of living standards and financial well-being.

BRADBURY POUND

Above the logo for the 'Bring Back the Bradbury' campaign launched by the British Constitution Group and the UK Column

And concerning this very real threat of a sudden financial collapse, just remember that hanging over the entire global economy is a completely bogus and contrived criminal debt that has been allowed to get out of control in the so-called derivatives market to the extent it now amounts to over 550 trillion dollars. What is the derivatives market? The conventional definition, if you can understand it, is this:

“The derivatives market is the financial market for derivatives, financial instruments like futures contracts or options, which are derived from other forms of assets. The market can be divided into two, that for exchange-traded derivatives and that for over-the-counter derivatives”

But the reality is, it is simply a casino run by racketeers! This article<sup>15</sup> should convince anyone that all this insanity and criminality, that flourishes so much in the City of London and the international money markets, must, for all our sakes, come to an immediate end....and the restoration of the Bradbury Pound and the simple principle of National Credit will do this!

Chapter 5

The banking and corporate elite – they just love wars!

There is an aspect to twentieth century history that has not been properly addressed and researched by mainstream historians and economists – indeed you could describe this reluctance as being yet another elephant in the room! The common perception as to the root cause of the First World War was that it was a dynastic struggle between competing, and some would say inbred royal families egged on by ambitious politicians, not to mention ruthless generals and admirals keen to try out their new weapons and strategies.

Some of that perception is certainly true, but behind the scenes and ready to fund both sides in the coming conflagration were the banking dynasties, especially the House of Rothschild which already had the experience of the Napoleonic Wars where they made considerable profits by helping to fund both sides. Unfortunately, to investigate the role of the bankers in the Great War, you may have to run the gauntlet of being accused by some of being anti-Semitic because the driving force behind a lot of what happened was the political Zionist movement led by the Rothschilds to create a permanent home for the Jewish people in Palestine – pressure that led to the Balfour Declaration in 1917. For those who are afraid that this is some sort of veiled attack on the ancient and thoroughly respected religion of Judaism, please understand that a sizeable number of Orthodox Jews are in fact vehemently opposed to the political state of Israel<sup>16</sup> – if you enter ‘Jews against Zionism’ into any search engine, you will start to see very quickly that the truthful and honest picture is not what the controlled mainstream media would have you believe.

Zionists tell people that these Orthodox Jews are just simply ‘self-hating Jews’!

The bottom line is this - we are ALL human beings and we must ALL come together to fight this evil financial system that creates so much misery and war in the world! However, in order to avoid being trapped into a debate about Zionism, which would only distract us from the essential points about how money is actually created and by whom, let's look at this gentleman, Major General Smedley D Butler of the US Marines, the most decorated soldier America has ever produced. Please read his pamphlet 'War is a Racket'<sup>17</sup> - it describes perfectly what wars are really about and who really benefits. Smedley was an amazing man who deserves our utmost respect. He died in 1940, just as America was on the verge of coming into the Second World War, a war where the evidence is now overwhelming that the banking and corporate elite initially funded and supported Adolph Hitler and the Nazis to help bring them to power.

And in closing this section on bankers starting wars, let's not forget the profits that the banking and corporate elite have made and continue to make from their interventional wars in Iraq, Afghanistan and Libya (all Muslim countries that oppose usury as does the true religion of Islam). In the case of the latter country, Muammar Gaddafi was certainly no angel and definitely had his faults but he did use National Credit to feed, house and educate all his people to great effect.

But don't worry, at least the Libyans now have their own BIS controlled central bank!

This wasn't acceptable to the globalist banksters in the City of London and it is interesting to note that one of the first actions the so-called 'rebels' in Benghazi carried out was to establish a new debt-creating central bank to come under the auspices of the Bank for International Settlements (BIS). The current situation in Libya is appalling and completely beggars belief as competing warlords continue to fight one another with no end in sight – and Libya is certainly not the last country to be given the bankers' treatment as the legitimate government of Syria knows only too well! Whenever you read or see in the mainstream media about a failing international situation that's leading relentlessly and effortlessly to war, always ask that simple question – Cui bono? Who benefits? Who REALLY benefits?

Chapter 6

The imminent EU Referendum and how the debt-free Bradbury Pound changes everything!

Over the next year or so there is going to be a huge amount of argument about whether or not Great Britain will be poorer or better off if we voted to leave the European Union. The important fact here, concerning the restoration of the Treasury-issued Bradbury Pound, is this – if HM Treasury is issuing the debt-free and interest-free liquidity needed for a prosperous and happy nation that is based solely on the credit of what the country is worth, there is absolutely no need to worry about what the City of London and ‘big business’ have to say about our membership of the EU. And if the European Commission and the European Central Bank, along with the IMF and the BIS, don’t like the idea of the British Government looking after its own people and its economy with debt-free and interest-free money, then they can all be told to go and whistle where the sun doesn’t shine.....please note, the Greek people en masse need to wake up quickly to such a defiant stance and effective solution to their now seemingly out of control problems with unlawful debt and to tell the bullying and threatening ‘troika’ to simply go to hell!

The truth is that the European Economic Community (EEC) was a hidden initiative of the debt-creating international financiers and bankers – indeed, there is some evidence to suggest that the Nazis first came up with this idea towards the end of the Second World War. This so-called ‘free trade’ initiative that was the EEC (which many of us in our complete ignorance of the truth voted for) suddenly morphed without warning into an all-out political union – something that the British ‘No’ campaigners in the 1975 referendum to the EEC warned about. The unpalatable truth is that the existing European Union provably comes from the same psychopathic mindset that controls most of the world’s money supply and which is trying to inflict this corporate Orwellian nightmare on all of humanity.

Please look at this excellent video<sup>18</sup> which so well describes the history and creeping advance of the European Union by the use of deception and outright treason – it’s absolutely in your face!

The good news is that once we, in Britain, restore the Bradbury Pound, every nation in Europe will adopt, without hesitation, the principle of National Credit thus leaving the debt-creating and fraudulent bankers with absolutely nowhere to go. The whole of the EU will collapse and in its place will come a new Europe, a Europe made up of sovereign and prosperous nations, all living in complete peace, trust and harmony with one another because they enjoy, recognise and respect each others' differences and cultures.

And it won't just be the European countries which want freedom from the City of London and its global network of debt-creating criminal bankers and financiers. All around the world desperately poor people, with virtually nothing to their names, will organise and confront their politicians and leaders demanding that they too experience the economic justice and common sense of National Credit - something that should completely put an end to the poverty and stigma of the so-called Third World. The conventional 'trickle down theory', so beloved of the system-serving economists, has been proved time and again not to work - National Credit most certainly does!

And with National Credit in place globally, the main reason for the growing human problem of mass economic migration would be removed completely. Why would people want to leave their places of birth and where their families and friends live when they are living in a country that creates the debt-free liquidity needed for its people to enjoy and experience prosperous, useful and happy lives? The bottom line is this - there can be no logical or moral argument against the principle of National Credit and it is just a simple fact that if the existing debt-creating banking and financial system was closed down and got rid of lock stock and barrel, a very large proportion of all human misery would go with it!

The sorry Discipline that is today's Economics

It is said that Frederick the Great of Prussia once made the remark that his country would be better served by its legal profession if half of its lawyers were hung - pour encourager les autres so to speak! When it comes to the deliberate deception and outright drivel being spouted in our halls of academia today by those representing the so-called modern Discipline of Economics, perhaps a similar fate should be reserved for some of our leading economists!

The Discipline of Economics, which is supposedly “the social science that seeks to describe the factors which determine the production, distribution and consumption of goods and services”. has always been influenced by the latest ‘isms and ‘ologies being peddled by those academics, philosophers and, in some actual cases, power crazed psychopaths who are seeking ‘the perfect way’ with which to harness, manage and control humanity’s creative and essential activities.....but sadly, three very important ingredients nearly always seem to be missing from their considerations – namely common sense, common humanity and the simple truth about how money is actually created and by whom!

Over the years, and almost certainly by design, the Discipline of Economics has been put on an altar in a semi-mystical place, well out of the reach of ordinary decent people - people who simply wish to practice this common sense and common humanity, whilst at the same time wishing to know the actual truth about money creation and money supply. To keep the Discipline's 'black arts' and 'black secrets' away from the prying eyes of the 'ninety-nine per cent' - that is us in other words - a hugely complex and bewildering morass of 'Schools' and 'Trends' have emerged with names like the Austrian School, the Freiburg School, the School of Lausanne and the Stockholm School not to mention Keynesian economics, post-Keynesian economics, supply-side economics, new classical economics etc. etc. etc.

Just like the myriad of political parties we see today, aspiring economists are all encouraged to climb into nice little boxes with labels on them from which they can then academically fight their corners and their little battles without ever getting near to, or even being allowed to get near to, the essential truths about how money is actually created and by whom.

One of the world's leading academic centres for the Discipline of Economics is the London School of Economics (LSE). Founded in 1895 by Fabian Society members Sidney and Beatrice Webb, Graham Wallas and George Bernard Shaw, this university has always shown support and empathy towards the politics and economics of the Left. In 1895, Socialism was just emerging as a new political philosophy that was being seen by the chattering classes as being a serious future force in British politics. Contrary to what might have been expected, the controlling bankers and financiers were not bothered in the least by this new 'ism'. Why? Well, the proponents of Socialism were advocating a system of centralised, and some would say Orwellian control for the whole of humanity....whether humanity liked it or not! And strong top down, centralised control, especially if they have a light hand on the tiller, suits the world's secretive money creators very well indeed. Here's what George Bernard Shaw himself believed Socialism to be:

"I also made it quite clear that Socialism means equality of income or nothing, and that under socialism you would not be allowed to be poor. You would be forcibly fed, clothed, lodged, taught, and employed whether you like it or not. If it were discovered that you had not character enough to be worth all this trouble, you might possibly be executed in a kindly manner; but whilst you were permitted to live you would have to live well."

Whilst there may have been a touch of Irish humour in this quote, what does come across is the authoritarian and controlling manner with which driven people tend to push their pet 'isms' and 'ologies' without realising how they are probably being controlled discretely by those who know the actual truth. Unfortunately for the Socialists and Fabians, and all those who seek grandiose centralised solutions to humanity's plight, they have never effectively addressed the most obvious question of all - how is the world's money created and controlled, and by whom? It will now be very interesting to see how the LSE responds to the concept of National Credit now that people are waking up to it, and how, of course, they will view the demand to restore the debt-free, Treasury-issued Bradbury Pound.

And before finishing with the LSE, it might just be worth noting that in 1931 the LSE was given by the Rockefeller Foundation the princely sum of around £146,000....in today's money that would equate to about £6.9 million! Just another example of how the elite families like to maintain their influence on 'education', especially when it comes to keeping up the academic charade of Economics! - Source: Findmypast.co.uk / British News Papers 1710 - 1965

So there it is! The conclusion has to be that the City of London and the banking and financial elite are controlling the Discipline of Economics in just the way they want to. It's easy – all they have to do is practice divide and rule, encourage intellectual arrogance and competing egos and allow only a tiny number of academics, like the late Professor Carroll Quigley, to know the truth about what's really going on.

Chapter 8

Where's Hercules when you need him? The Augean Stables by the Thames need cleaning out!

The stench of corruption and actual treason from the Houses of Parliament is now probably worse than the smell that came from the mythical stables. The very centre and cradle of our democracy has allowed itself to become completely corrupted by powerful vested interests and is now but a flawed institution which is directly controlled by the financial system created by the Establishment, the City of London and the global banking cartel. To use a phrase that MPs like to use themselves, the entire set-up in Parliament is presently 'not fit for purpose' and must be reformed immediately if our democracy, with its ancient rights and traditions, is to survive the corporate elite's planned breakdown of our sovereignty to the point that we are no longer a sovereign nation in our own right, but simply an economic region divided up into zones within the planned European Union Superstate!

Globalisation, as seen with the current and secretive Transatlantic Trade and Investment Partnership (where sovereign nations will become legally compliant to unelected and unaccountable corporate entities), is now making its big push to break through and Parliament, in its current format, is likely to do very little, if anything, to prevent all of this from happening.

German cartographers drew this map in 2006 to show the proposed new EU regions. The new European plan splits England into 3 zones - all of which are linked to parts of several other EU countries. Each zone will have a "transnational regional assembly"

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/List\_of\_Euroregions

To put a spanner in the works and to stop this surrender of our country by treason, deception and ignorance, the planned referendum campaign must now become a simple case of 'big business and the bankers' on one side versus the British people who value their ancient freedoms and who want to live happy, peaceful and debt-free prosperous lives. The clock is ticking and we have very little time indeed to wake everyone up (including those MPs who are not tainted by what's happening) to the truth about money creation and the imminent threat from the globalist mindset behind the City of London and its financial markets.

We have already seen how the unelected and unaccountable City Remembrancer sits within the House of Commons ensuring that MPs don't start asking searching questions about our country's money supply and what the City of London really gets up to. We also know that key players in both the government and the opposition regularly attend secretive meetings with the global and financial elite 'to take their orders' and are fully aware of the proposed 'New World Order' that former prime-minister Gordon Brown and other leading politicians have openly talked about.

Sadly, the ability of our elected representatives to serve us properly, and to always go where the truth takes them, has diminished considerably in the past few decades. This lessening of standards, and the increasing inability of MPs to act on evidence given to them by concerned constituents, is as a direct result of the political party system itself. And before we go any further, let's remind ourselves what the Bank of England Governor, Montagu Norman, said in 1924 to the US Bankers Association:

“By dividing the voter through the political party system, we can get them to expend their energies in fighting for questions of no importance”.

A political party is nothing but a contrived and artificial entity which is designed to ensure that aspiring politicians of whatever persuasion can be ultimately controlled by the Establishment. New ambitious and self-serving politicians can have their egos massaged by the party's grandees as they have their 'career' mapped out before them in return for complete loyalty and blind obedience. Weaker and less ambitious 'follow the crowd' MPs, who would appear to lack backbone or any sort of moral fibre, are often frightened into complete compliance and obedience by the threat of a visit to the Whips Office – the notorious 'whipping system' whereby, it is said, that MPs are reminded of past misdemeanours and indiscretions by the Party Whips who have access to the party's 'black book of dirty little secrets'. Such a visit or interview usually secures an errant MP's 'loyalty' and 'support' for a forthcoming issue or vote.

Another little mechanism that has been increasingly used to emasculate the MPs from being effective in getting the truth out is the so-called ‘convention’ that no MP should enter into correspondence with someone who is not their constituent. All MPs are told to respect this but the absurdity of this position is obvious. British MPs collectively have been elected to be responsible for the well-being, security and prosperity of our country as a whole – how can this convention encourage the diligence and the freedom of information that is needed to ensure that our elected representatives are fully in touch with the nation they serve? Fortunately, good MPs completely ignore this ‘rule’ but weak and cowardly system-serving MPs don’t hesitate to run for cover behind this convention.

Now that the dust has settled after the General Election, the two worst affected parties, Labour and the Liberal Democrats, have entered into a soul-searching, navel-gazing period of introspective self-analysis – or put another way, “what is the point of our existence?” A traumatised Clegg was seen on television making a plaintive plea that “we must keep the flame of liberalism alive”. And leading political commentators and Labour Party die-hards are now constantly asking “where does Labour go from here?” The answer is very simple - we don’t need the political parties to go anywhere, we just don’t need any political parties, full stop! That’s it!

We know, beyond all reasonable doubt, that political parties, working in cahoots with the mainstream media, are designed in such a way so that the truth about who actually controls us, and how they do it, can be kept from the electorate. Ironically, the only valid argument that's been heard against the principle and implementation of National Credit is this - would you trust any one political party to have the responsibility of creating and issuing all the money needed for the nation? Would you trust that party's grandees with the restoration of the Bradbury Pound? The answer has to be a resounding 'No!' The hierarchical, manipulative and secretive nature of any political party can easily result in abuse and fraud.

The answer to this problem is remarkably simple! We need our Parliament to become effectively one massive 'jury' of reasonably minded people - a debating chamber where decisions are thoroughly debated in a fair and balanced way and where pre-arranged agreements and arrangements become a thing of the past. And to achieve this, we must have a House of Commons made up entirely of independent MPs - MPs who have been thoroughly vetted by their electorates so that the qualities of integrity, wisdom, selflessness and humility shine through and become paramount in the chamber. The age of party whips, corporate corruption and organised lobbying by powerful vested interests would be over. And the outcome of all of this would be that the truth always gets out and that common sense, common decency and our Common Law would reign supreme. It is only with a fully accountable and transparent system like this can we hope to trust our Parliament with the huge responsibilities of National Credit and the restoration of the debt-free, interest-free Bradbury Pound.

Chapter 9

The time has now come for a peaceful but determined people's movement to ensure that the City of London and the private bankers no longer control our lives

The existence of the now provably false 'deficit', the appalling 'bedroom tax', food-banks, families under enormous financial stress and the over-hanging fear of further severe financial cutbacks to essential services such as the NHS, are all a dreadful reality because we, the British people, have surrendered to the criminals our absolute sovereign right to issue and control our own debt-free and interest-free money. This is a completely provable fact and we must all now take peaceful but determined action to expose and collapse this global criminal banking and financial system that is creating so much misery and poverty in the world and which is based in the City of London.

So this is a plea to all you good people out there who are feeling completely dispirited about the outcome of the General Election. The simple truth is this, we don't have to wait another five years for the next General Election – we simply have to come together quickly in large numbers to expose the truth about money creation and money supply whilst harnessing and mobilising the precedence of our ancient and thoroughly tested Constitution, including our magnificent and completely effective

Common Law, the law of the land, to bring the guilty to justice.

We know, with actual evidence, that our country is in a state of unlawful transition courtesy of treasonous individuals and organisations who are seeking to break up and undermine the actual sovereignty of our nation from within. Check out the so-called training charity Common Purpose<sup>19</sup> if you want proof of this. The City of London and the European Union are actively engaging in provable subterfuge and blatant deception to continue to bring in their statute-based Roman Law. This is the corporate legal system, the law of the sea, that is attacking the precedence of our ancient Common Law, law of the land court system. It is completely alien to the British way of meting out justice – that is justice without fear or favour as championed by Magna Carta 1215 and the Bill of Rights 1689. Indeed, the corporate mindset's attempts to avoid the use of juries and to have, for example, judges acting in County Courts and Family Courts as judge and jury on behalf of artificial corporate entities, such as local councils, is being openly and successfully challenged. But everywhere you look, we have a legal system (based within the confines of the City of London) that depends upon 'legalese' – a deliberate foreign legal language that protects the corporate mindset by hiding behind a wall of unfathomable gobbledygook that ordinary decent people have little chance to understand.

However, the fight back has now started and groups of these ordinary decent people are now coming together all over the country to prevent injustices from being committed by such treasonous courts, with court bailiffs now being increasingly prevented from seizing, by the use of provably fraudulent paperwork, the homes of people who are now standing up and taking on the corrupt banks and financial institutions. Indeed, almost anyone with a mortgage is now being shown that they are the victims of organised fraud. A massive problem for the City of London is building on a daily basis as the truth comes relentlessly out.

Coupled with this ‘mission creep’ by the corporate banking elite into our courts and legal system, there is also a gradual move to privatise and corporatise our national services whether it be the health service, the police service, the prison service, the civil service or the armed services. Everywhere you look we see signs that the unaccountable dark grey suits are taking over discretely and that the Orwellian police state is being assembled at an ever increasing rate, especially in the area of advanced technology for state surveillance and the detailed monitoring of our daily lives. Indeed, we are now witnessing how even our children are now being considered to be ‘owned’ by the corporate state. The signs of this corporate fascist take-over are everywhere to be seen!

Capita, Serco, Sodexo and G4S are just four examples of where government services are being replaced at an alarming rate by the private corporate sector. Everywhere you look our nation's sovereignty is under attack from those in the City of London who envisage this bleak 'obey and do as you are told' Orwellian future for all of us. However, this can only be achieved if they are allowed to continue with the issuing and controlling of our country's money supply. The bottom line is this - we do not need a financial banking system that has been devised by psychopaths for the use of psychopaths in order that they can control us through contrived austerity, fear and debt.

As the truth about the Bradbury Pound and our money supply starts to get out into the wider arena, we can expect to see an increasing amount of blustering from the City of London and the financial services industry as they attempt to defend their record by claiming that they generate billions of pounds for the economy whilst creating hundreds of thousands of jobs. It is essential that people are not distracted by any of this. The idea that we can't do without the City of London is complete and utter drivel. We have proved beyond all reasonable doubt that their system of money creation as debt is completely corrupt and rotten to the core and must not be allowed to survive in any shape or form.

Thanks to some decent people on the ‘inside’, we, the ‘ninety-nine percent’, have now been given the knowledge and the opportunity to escape this trap. The question is, will you, who is reading this E-book, now become an activist to help get the Treasury-issued, debt-free and interest-free Bradbury Pound restored? Or are you now going to stand idly by and allow these austerity cuts to be made when history and common sense shows that they are a complete and utter lie? There is only one direction for political activists to go, and that is towards where the truth is! We now need a peaceful but determined movement across the board that is based solely around the truth, common sense, common decency and the Common Law. With that mix, no criminal, however high and mighty....and wealthy....can stand up to us!

A new peaceful mass movement is building around the truth to take down the ‘one per cent’

And one final point to end on and which is by far the most disturbing. It would appear from careful and extensive research that the same sick and evil mindset that is behind the unlawful control of our money supply is also behind much of the extensive child abuse being uncovered today. Whether it is children being seized for profit from loving parents by the state in the unlawful and thoroughly discredited Family Courts or the organised Establishment-led paedophile rings that are coming to light after the revelations of Jimmy Savile, a huge can of worms has been opened up and there is much here we can all do to support the victims and those who are attempting to uncover the truth.

A perfect ongoing example of this is the case of Melanie Shaw who, as a child victim herself and as a whistle-blower of appalling child abuse and possibly even murder in a council run children's home in Nottingham (Beechwood), was, until very recently, languishing in a Sodexo privately run prison having committed no offence whatsoever – criminal elements within the 'system' are doing everything possible to silence her! For months she has had to suffer solitary confinement, a lack of proper medical treatment and is not even allowed to have a legal team of her own choice – she is being forced to have system-serving lawyers who

Conclusion

Undeniable evidence shows, beyond all reasonable doubt, that austerity is simply a huge and completely provable lie! Likewise, poverty, that affects so much of humanity and which ruins so many lives, is also a huge and completely provable lie! Everything that you've read in this E-book is completely true and verifiable! The evidence is completely overwhelming – when it comes to how money is created and who is doing the creating, it is a simple case of black and white.....that is, there are absolutely no grey areas for the system-serving politicians and economists to hide and prevaricate in.

The time has now come for all of us, you and me, to get off our backsides and to put an end to this evil and deliberately imposed global financial system. And what we have to do is very simple! We have to take away from the heart of the beast, the City of London with its controlling banking dynasties, its self-given 'right' to issue and control our country's money supply as debt. And we do this by restoring National Credit and by bringing back the debt-free and interest-free Treasury-issued Bradbury Pound. And when this happens, this greed driven and debt-creating financial system that's hell bent on global governance and economic slavery, will collapse forever!

But one thing we must not allow to happen – no part of this system must be allowed to survive. It has ALL got to go – tinkering and changing bits of the system here and there will not do. The wizard behind the curtain has now been exposed for all to see – no part of this evil mindset must be allowed to survive in any shape or form. If we don't do the job properly, these ruthless psychopaths will find a way back!

This is the biggest news story since the end of the Second World War and we must all now actively get involved in whatever way possible. A full blown grassroots people's movement to bring back the Bradbury and to restore common sense, common decency and the precedence of our ancient Common Law and constitution must now get off the ground and be properly funded and resourced.

As a first step to achieving this, we need people like yourselves to please quickly sign up and join the British Constitution Group and the UK Column (see links below). Other groups and organisations, who are committed to peaceful campaigning, are more than welcome to join this new movement.

Our numbers have got to build and to build quickly if this hidden truth is to get out and we are to successfully take on the wrongdoers. But take heart, the 'one per cent' within the confines of the City of London have built for themselves a house of cards that will collapse suddenly and completely once the truth about money creation and money supply properly gets out.

Thank you for taking the time and trouble to read this.

About:

In this book Justin Walker lifts the lid on the ongoing worldwide financial scam perpetrated by the banksters and the establishment.

For those that do not understand how money is created, this is a must read book. There is no need for austerity but there is a need for sovereign governments to issue and control the money supply for the benefit of the nation as a whole and not just for the elite.
